ROIClear buys commercial real estate primarily in Arizona. The team prefers multifamily properties of 75 units or larger. ROIClear also serves as producer of the ROIClear Podcast and lead sponsor of the Arizona Multifamily MasterMind Group (AZMM.org).

SCOUTING & TRAVEL

Hightower is active with the Boy Scouts of America (Eagle Scout, Silver Beaver) where he teaches future leaders about budgeting and time management. EARLY CAREER

Early in his career, Hightower worked in software development and technical sales in corporate America, followed by a stint in commercial real estate brokerage with Marcus & Millichap. He studied Computer Science and Engineering at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and completed his BS in Computer Science at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

LAUNCHING COMPANIES

Hightower launched WisdomGroup as a network consultancy. He earned the Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE) certification and pulled the company into the Microsoft Certified Solution Provider (MCSP) ecosystem. Later, as the open source movement gained momentum, Hightower steered the company away from networking and toward software development with open source tools such as Ruby on Rails.

After the pivot to software development, WisdomGroup completed web and mobile projects in multiple industries including healthcare, financial services, high performance computing, e-commerce, travel, event management, and not-for-profit. WisdomGroup became immersed in the open source community, first by leading ChicagoRuby, and later by creating WindyCityRails.

Each successful project led to larger opportunities and a stronger reputation for WisdomGroup, culminating in the sale of the company after twenty-one years of operation.

ROICLEAR + SYNDICATION

Hightower's real estate company, ROIClear, is a buyer and syndicator of multifamily properties. ROIClear builds win/win relationships.

Investors enjoy capital preservation, tax advantages, and ROI. Residents enjoy a great place to live. Broker relationships are strengthened through repeat transactions. Everybody wins when deals are structured well.
